OFFICE BASED VOLUNTEERING

OVERVIEW

The TOY Project is a London-based children's charity that uses play to support children and families in need. We provide toys to children and families in need, deliver free play sessions at our Playroom, and offer creative workshops and exhibitions in our community gallery. We also donate toys to schools, hospitals and organisations working with families across London through our referral system.

We believe in giving toys a second life and making play accessible to every child. Volunteers play a vital role in making this possible.

Our workplace volunteering sessions allow your team to support our work at your office. We bring everything with us and set up engaging, hands-on activities that run throughout the day.

Your team will help sort and organise donated toys, build Lego and Playmobil sets, and create themed toy packs. These packs are used in our play sessions and passed directly on to children through our referral network.

We can run the day in a way that suits your workplace, whether as a full-day event, structured shifts or drop-in style. We can also include optional team games and challenges to keep energy high and encourage participation.

All sessions are delivered by two members of The TOY Project team. For larger groups, additional support will be provided.

THE SESSION

Everything your team produces on the day will go directly into our work supporting children. Your help allows us to:

Keep all of our sessions free and accessible to everyone

Respond to more toy referrals from schools, social workers and community partners

Support more children across London through play and creativity

Whether the packages created are used in our Playroom, at community sessions, or donated through referrals, your contribution has an immediate and lasting impact.
