

THE TOY PROJECT
CHARITY NUMBER 1164282

Work Place Volunteer Day

Who we are

The Toy Project is a London based charity dedicated to creating inclusive access to play. We Carry out this initiative by providing toys and books to families in need such as; children in hospitals, hospices, refuges, and living in difficult situations. We also provide free and inclusive play sessions accessible to all at our playroom. For more information about what we do please visit our website.

The Toy Project - Homepage

What to expect

Timings	11am - 4pm (with a lunch slot at a time of your choice)

You will begin your day at our shop and referral centre, the hub of the charity, where one of our team will introduce you to our project and what we do. You will then be shown to our playroom, just a few doors down, to get stuck in with working with us as a member of our team for the day.

There are many facets to The Toy Project and therefore the tasks that you will do on the day can be varied. These may include sorting, building and bagging Lego sets and creating unique toy bags from playmobil and Sylvanians.

The day is about having the opportunity to play, chat, and team build whilst giving back to children in need. You can expect drinking tea and conversation all whilst revisiting toys from your childhood and engaging in play.

> It's the things we play with and the people who help us play that make the great difference in our lives
> – Fred Rogers

How it helps us

By participating in our sessions, you are contributing to the sorting and organisation of donated toys, which will be rehomed with local families and organisations. Additionally, the funds generated will support free and inclusive play sessions in our playroom. These sessions are led by our experienced staff and are thoughtfully designed to accommodate participants of all ages, from newborns to seniors. Activities include storytelling, Lego building, and art sessions featuring artists from our gallery space.

